

ADVANCE TITLE INFORMATION

DEMOCRACY UNDER ATTACK

by Kerstin Plehwe & Franz-Alois Fischer

CONTENT:

Not only politicians, but almost everyone in the public eye, be it in a corporate or government context, or simply on social media, is confronted with the excesses of today's populism.

Communication is highly emotionalised, extremely fast-moving and based on increasingly uncertain facts. Is a video real or AI-generated? We must face the trends, dangers and consequences described in this book and carefully consider how to deal with them. In fact, we can even learn from them. This book presents success strategies for politics and business in these challenging times: whoever is the first to understand, will also win!

The authors: Kirsten Plehwe lives in Germany and the US. She advises companies, associations and NGOs and has worked as a political analyst for NTV for many years. Professor Franz Alois Fischer is a lawyer and philosopher and also a professor at the FOM University of Economics in Munich.
