THE SHERLOCK HOLMES JUNIOR ESCAPE BOOK

by Tom Grimm

CONTENT:

This volume is the first of a new Escape book series applying to young readers, focusing on the adventures of 12 year-old Sherlock Holmes Jr., great-great-grandson of the world famous master detective.

His first task leads young Sherlock to a time-honoured residential school near London, where some original sheets of music by Ludwig van Beethoven, dating from the 18th century, have been stolen from a safeguarded part of the library.

As soon as Sherlock and his friends enter a deteriorated house in mids of the devil's moor where their investigations have guided them, the door is suddenly locked – now it's your turn to solve the mystery, the clock is ticking!

The author, a trained chef who has been working as a journalist, editor and translator, has published numerous successful cookbooks based on fantastic literature and films, as well as guidebooks on computer and video games.
