FLAT-SHARING SURVIVAL GUIDE

by Norbert Golluch

CONTENT:

Here comes the first survival guide for flat-sharing communities! It contains everything you need to know when you move out of 'hotel mama' and share your first apartment. You've just survived the natural selection process at the flat-sharing casting, and now the battle for the edible food in the fridge, the shower times and the budget for the next groceries shopping trip are looming.

This survival guide prepares you for all possible worst-case scenarios and is equally relevant for students, trainees, single parents or early retirees. It prepares you to avoid critical phases like the dreaded cleaning schedule, spot the most dangerous roommate types or win the battle over the best spaces in the fridge – no need to panic, this book will have all the answers for you!

The author Norbert Golluch worked as primary school teacher before he started his career in publishing as editor of a well-known satire magazine. His decision to become a fulltime author of humorous books brought him great success and many bestsellers are still available today.
